

JUST

Like

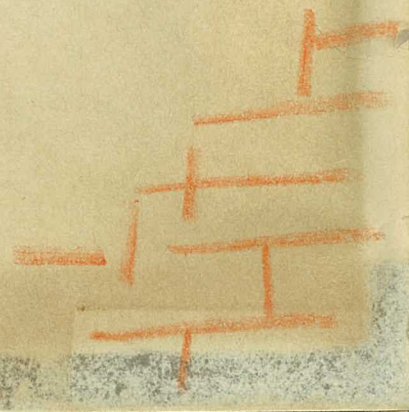

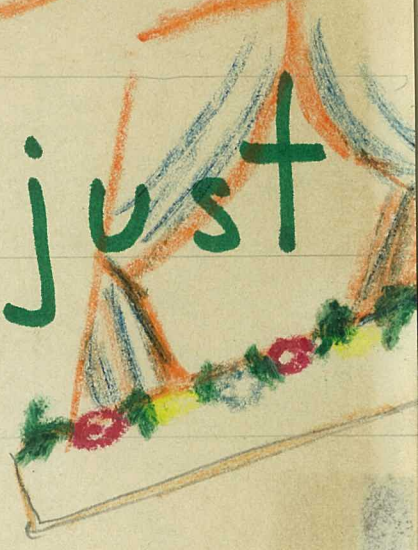

YOU

By ~~A-A~~
Johanna Freedman

Once there was a big house, just

like yours.

And in the big house

there was a little

room, just like yours.

And this little room
belonged to a girl,
just like you.

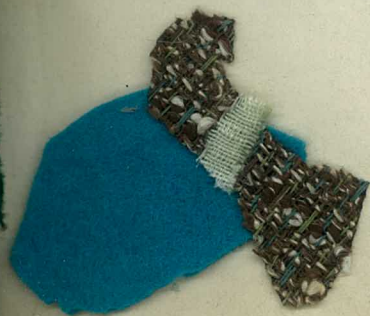

But she was a

naughty girl, not like you. She had

pretty clothes, just

like you.

She had a soft red

dress. But she left

it on the floor, not like you. And it got

very dirty, not like

yours.

She had many fluffy
animals, just like you.

But after she had
played with them
she left them in a
pile, not like yours.

And soon her little
room, in the big house
was very messy,
not like yours.

She had a roly-poly

puppy, just like yours.

But she did not look
after her roly-poly

puppy, not like you.

And the poor roly-

poly puppy grew

very unhappy.

not like yours. But

she did not care,

not like you.

She had a very nice

mother, just like

yours.

But her mother grew

sad, because her

daughter was so very

bad, not like you.

And her mother grew

mad, because her

daughter was so very

bad, not like you.

Her mother said to

her, "You are a very naughty girl. You

should not leave

your clothes on the floor, and leave

Your fluffy animals in a pile, and forget

to feed and take care of your poly-

poly

puppy.

CLOTHES

PUPPY

ANIMALS

The little girl,

just like you, was

very sorry that

she had been so

naughty. And from that day on she

hung up her clothes,
put away her fluffy
animals, and took care of her rdy-poly
puppy, just like you.

