

FM REVIEW 2011 4

Editor: I liked the author's enthusiasm, and his recognition of the importance of history in FM (appreciated his shout-out to Marion Bishop too). I'd favor acceptance of the article. I think the paragraph about his program's founding father could be shortened without harming the basic point; and the first sentence in para 5 "When I look into the eyes..." is not well-written. Otherwise, I believe it contributes a valuable insight that the stories of FM's origin need to continue to be told.

Author: I was moved by your enthusiasm and commitment to the future of family medicine
